

The year is 2038.

The universe is now controlled by multinational corporations who have only one concern - the mining of rare minerals on planets in the far reaches of space. Human life is cheap and the only thing worth fighting for is mineral rights. The Galactic Mining Corporation is suffering a hostile takeover - another company is taking over its operation by force, killing all human life on the remote planets it raids. Moon 44 is one of the last remaining outpost but Moon 44 already has a problem. Someone is hijacking the planets mining robots - making off with untold millions of precious minerals. Enter Felix Stone.

Internal Affairs Investigator. Felix has the job of uncovering the traitors but unknown to him, the station's Major has instructions to sacrifice the crew in the event of an attack - and save the robots. Stone soon finds himself fighting on two fronts: discovering the hijacker and struggling to save the entire crew from annihilation.

MOON44

IN THE OUTER
ZONE...

YOU NEED
A FRIEND.

